

Media Contact:
Alicia Grasso, Marketing Director
(609) 884-1341 x3
alicia@capemaystage.com

Cape May Stage's Second Stage Series
Presents
Two Very Talented Women on Two Special Nights

Musical theater veteran Sandra Hartman sings Irving Berlin, Cole Porter and more in They Say It's Wonderful making her Cape May debut on July 25

Famed NYC Columnist Carrie Carmichael's You Never Know (a love letter to the entire state of New Jersey) premieres July 27

Cape May Stage
Box Office: (609) 884-1341
The Robert Shackleton Playhouse
Bank & Lafayette Streets, Cape May, NJ 08204

Cape May Stage audiences are in for a special treat as Sandra Hartman performs her musical cabaret They Say It's Wonderful with musical director Mark Yurkanin on Saturday July 25 at 10PM. Singing a wide range of standards and contemporary Broadway tunes, Hartman explores love songs of all genres, written by Jason Robert Brown, Frank Wildorn, Irving Berlin, Cole Porter and more. This heartwarming cabaret has charmed Philadelphia audiences and is sure to cap off a beautiful summer night for Cape May theatergoers. Then on Monday July 27 at 8PM, famed NYC columnist Carrie Carmichael debuts her one-woman show You Never Know about her quirky, New Jersey-centric, prepared-for-everything Uncle Eddie! Cape May Stage audiences are sure to appreciate this homage to the Garden State, filled with humor and poignancy.

The Second Stage Series at Cape May Stage presents a variety of entertainment to complement the mainstage season in an effort to 'keep the lights on' at the Stage during traditionally 'dark days/nights'. Artistic Director Roy Steinberg's aim to deliver high caliber talent to Cape May's theatergoers every day/night of the week continues with the presentation of these two unique, highly engaging shows. Audiences will love hearing musical theater veteran Hartman's interpretations of classic songs and Carmichael's hilarious, yet moving presentation.